partment Store.

Members of the fifth judicial circuit court of appeals of the United States Tuesday were occupied with contest over payment of $100,000 to the Fairfax department store, at Fairfax, S. C.

The case has been brought to the circuit court by the Massachusetts Fire and Marine Insurance company vs. Jake Schneider, owner of the store. Appellants claim the respondent failed to keep his record in such a manner that an itemized statement of the losses sustained could be obtained. The claimant, however, sets out completed a list of all of Carnes' known assets and would make it public in a few days, simultaneous with his informing the court and the mission board of what property he has found which can be listed as "Carnes' possessions."

FUNDS SOUGHT FROM CARNES' PROTEGES

Nearly every piece of property Carnes owned was mortgaged, he said, but added that there was stock in various companies which would prove of some value and even the properties would bring some return after the mortgages were lifted.

"It would be purely a guess for me to fix a figure on the assets and if I were guessing I would place it at between $250,000 and $300,000," the receiver said, explaining that when the compilation is made it would not surprise him to see the figure much more or much less than either of these amounts.

Estimate Difficult.
"It is hard to place value on some of the properties, including the home, which we are trying to sell, but I hope to have some definite figure for the court, the mission board and the public within a few days."

As the receiver was receiving reports from Chicago and Milwaukee of investigations being launched there to find some of the alleged loot of Carnes' raids on the mission board treasury he continued to seek new information concerning Carnes' movements since leaving Atlanta with a view of extending the search to all the cities visited.

"It is going to be extremely difficult to find what took Carnes to St. Paul, Wis., if anything other than a fishing trip," he said. "He might have gone there on a fishing trip because I know that he liked to fish, but I cannot imagine a man who knows that he is being hunted in every nook and corner of the country snubbing off to a Wisconsin resort for fish alone. And besides it was a little late in the season for fishing there. This stop on Carnes' route is a deep puzzle to me and I am investigating it."

Wait Word From Officers.
While the receiver was revealing his plans for conserving every dollar of Carnes' assets, the Fulton county solicitor-general's office was anxiously awaiting word from Assistant U. S. John Hudson and Deputy Sheriff J. A. Tolbert as to when they would start the return trip with Carnes.

who was arrested at Winnipeg, Man., last Friday night.

Information reaching Solicitor-General John A. Boykin indicated that the return trip likely will be started from Winnipeg early this morning which would bring the Carnes party to Atlanta Friday before noon. Nothing definite was learned concerning the return, however, by the time the office closed for the day Tuesday afternoon.

"There is no real need for rushing Carnes back to Atlanta and this office heartily approves of any effort that Mr. Hudson and Mr. Tolbert are taking to find funds stolen from the treasury of the mission board," Assistant Solicitor Ed Stephens asserted.

"Though our office is not legally concerned with the recovery of the loot we are morally bound to do everything possible to assist the paralyzed board treasury and that is what Mr. Hudson and Mr. Tolbert are going to do."

Early Trial Not Essential.
Mr. Stephens likewise asserted that he saw no real need for the immediate trial of Carnes, his office hoping to get many more indictments against the defaulting treasurer before the state's case against him is closed.

"Of course, we are anxious to have Carnes back in Atlanta as soon as possible for we want to talk with him," Mr. Stephens said. "But we have only two indictments against him and many more are in prospect. Unless he can make an almost record, both he is due for a long stay in jail and he may as well be in Winnipeg as in Atlanta and the Winnipeg police already have shown beyond doubt that they can take care of him."

Meanwhile presentation of additional evidence to the Fulton county grand jury which met Tuesday was further delayed, because of the absence from the city of former Governor Clifford Walker and the continued lack of documentary evidence concerning Carnes' alleged flotation of unregistered notes with a number of banks in the south. This evidence is in the hands of representatives of the Atlanta office of Ernst & Ernst, auditors employed by the Southern Baptist convention mission board to check Carnes' accounts. When it will be ready for use in the solicitor's presentation to the grand jury has not been learned. Former Governor Walker was called out of the city suddenly to attend to business matters at Gainesville.

Account Checking Goes On.
At the office of the mission board in the Wynne-Claughton building the auditors were busily engaged in the checking of Carnes' accounts, still unable to reveal the date when they hope to finally complete the audit. Working with the cooperation of Dr. A. J. Barton, office secretary, and Dr. D. B. Gray, acting treasurer, the auditors had before them all the Carnes ledgers, bank notes, deposits and every financial paper handled by the former treasurer during his long stay in the mission board employ.

"The auditors are busy almost night and day," Dr. Barton said. "Of course we hope to have the task completed as soon as possible but we want it done thoroughly and will not be content until every minute of time they need for this purpose."

Though Carnes has been under arrest for five days, still no word has come from members of his family, still occupying the Druid Hills home, as to what they intend to do regarding his defense, if anything. No statement of any kind has come from Mrs. Carnes or her two sons since the disappearance of the head of the family save for the declaration that they were willing that every asset of the former treasurer be turned over to the board in restitution for his alleged defalcations.

RETURN OF CARNES MAY BEGIN TODAY

changed much in the last two months."

Whether Carnes will be handcuffed and shackled during the long ride to Atlanta, neither Hudson nor Tolbert would say, but judging from the paraphernalia and weapons the two brought with them they are not going to take any chances with their prisoner.

Carnes told Hudson and Tolbert that he would not talk because he had been so directed by his Atlanta attorney, believed to be William Schley Howard. The attorney, Carnes explained, said he would not take the case if Carnes revealed to Hudson and Tolbert anything of his past or of his future plans.

The two Atlanta officers, accompanied by Chief of Police Chris Newton and Chief of Detectives George Smith, of the Winnipeg department, interviewed Carnes in his third floor cell this afternoon after the two former had presented their credentials to the chief of the city of Atlanta and the Georgia's demand for the prisoner.

Though unwilling to talk, Carnes appeared anxious for an early start for Atlanta. He reiterated to Hudson and Tolbert that he wanted to get "the business over with quickly."

Carnes "begged" cigarettes from the two Atlantans as he has done from the Winnipeg police every time they visited him in his cell here.

Smokes Constantly.
Carnes smokes incessantly—when he can get the cigarettes. He has acquired the prisoners' habit of asking cigarettes from every person he comes in contact with and manages to keep supplied. The Winnipeg police, believing that the money found in his possession stolen from the mission board and should rightfully be returned to the board's treasury have refused to permit him to spend it even for cigarettes. So he has to depend on the generosity of his jailors and fellow prisoners to keep supplied.

Hudson and Tolbert arrived here last night but were fatigued from their long journey from Atlanta and repaired immediately to a hotel, not going to the station to see Chief Newton or Carnes before retiring.

The two Atlanta officers appeared at headquarters this morning and discussed the arrest of Carnes with Newton and Smith, but did not ask to see the prisoner, deferring a visit to his cell until this afternoon when they had learned all information concerning his activities here.

Some Delay Possible.
Although the proceedings of handing over Carnes are purely formal, due to his announcement that he will not fight extradition to the United States, they will require some little time tomorrow morning, if Hudson and Tolbert decide to leave here then. Papers, deporting Carnes from Canada will have to be made out and the immigration authorities informed that Carnes is being deported. They likely will accompany the party far as the Minnesota line where they will be met by American immigration authorities and Carnes turned over to them. The Atlanta officers meanwhile keeping their "hold" on him. The American immigration officers are expected to do no more with Carnes than they do with unguaranteed Americans and little time will be lost at the state line. It is doubtful if the party will even be forced to leave the train.

Hudson and Tolbert expect to proceed to St. Paul where they will change trains for Chicago at which point they hope to board a through train to Atlanta.

Carnes, of Federal Prison HUNTED, HOPELESS, COMES TO FACE TRIAL Days, To Return To Atlanta

Clinton S. Carnes, a photograph made in the Winnipeg jail after his appearance in court to be held for Atlanta authorities. The fear of capture and the worries of a fugitive are plainly impressed upon his face.

Winnipeg, Man., October 2.—(Special.)—Clinton S. Carnes was ready to go back to Atlanta today. His hair was cut, newly acquired mustache trimmed, face shaven, clothes brushed and shoes shined. The piece-meal of the business man had replaced the old-fashioned rimmed spectacles of Carnes the police dodger. But his guards were not ready for the trip so Carnes had to stay in jail and satisfy himself with one cigarette after another—charitably furnished by his jailors and John Hudson and J. A. Tolbert from Atlanta.

But it's Carnes, the prisoner, that Winnipeg will remember. Gone, perhaps forever, is Carnes, the business-an, financier and churchman. The old Carnes has come back. The Carnes of the federal prison is a vastly different man from the Carnes of Druid Hills.

Back is the drooping chin, the hollow face, the forlorn eyes, the dejected expression, the air of futility, the failing step so characteristic of a man whose every move is dogged by the fear of capture. Carnes, the convict, is a different man from the man in the over-stretched arm of a man in whose every move is dogged by the fear of the semi-conscious feeling that soon will come the hard, cracking, demanding knock on the door.

GEORGE DECLARES STATE WILL GIVE SMITH BIG EDGE

Charlottesville, Va., October 2.—(AP)—Senator Walter F. George, speaking here tonight in support of the democratic national candidates, declared that, in his opinion, the state of Georgia would swing to Smith by a majority of forty to fifty thousand votes.

Senator George, himself a professed dry, spoke in the Jefferson theater, and at length defended the views on prohibition as expressed by Governor Smith. He contrasted what he described as the straight forward expression of Governor Smith with the statements of Herbert Hoover. "The Lord only knows where Hoover stands," he exclaimed.

Clinton S. Carnes shows the terrors of the hunt. From Atlanta to somewhere (he won't tell) to Chicago to Milwaukee to St. Paul to St. Paul to Winnipeg, he dodged, perhaps all the time looking over his shoulder, ready for the dash that might mean longer liberty. Each day of liberty meant loss of vitality, but it meant freedom. Each day he avoided recognition meant just another 24 hours of worry and anxiety and apprehension.

So did Clinton S. Carnes push on. He had been a fugitive before and he knew the futility of the endless moving. He knew the day of reckoning was sure to come. It had come before. But still he went on. And his appearance shows the toll exacted.

It was a worn out, dead, yet living, Clinton S. Carnes whom Detective Sergeant James Melville and Detective D. B. Burnett encountered on a street here late last Friday afternoon. It was approaching twilight, the darkest of the dark periods to one haunted by the fear of capture. Carnes, known by instinct to Melville and Burnett, was Frank L. Lewis, business man. Surely headquarters wanted nothing of him. But it was only for a minute. What was the use of forcing a living body on when the soul within was dead?

That's the Carnes who is coming back to Atlanta, Carnes the convict, not Carnes the great and powerful business man, not Carnes the churchman, not Carnes the dynamic real estate operator, not the Carnes of the mahogany furnished office suite and Druid Hills villa. That Carnes is lost forever somewhere between Atlanta and Winnipeg. It is the Carnes of McDonough road that Atlanta will see when Hudson and Tolbert return with him between them.

Woman Lawyer Tells Women Why Smith Is Due Support Of Sex For Enlightened Acts

Miss Stella Akin, Savannah, Recites Reasons Why Southern Women Should Back Ticket.

Pooler, Ga., October 2.—(Special.) One of the most brilliant speeches ever made in this section of the state was delivered tonight by Miss Stella Akin, of Savannah, leading member of the Chatham county bar. Basing her remarks upon a discussion of reasons why southern women should support Governor Alfred E. Smith, democratic nominee for president, Miss Akin made a deep impression upon her hearers. She said, in part:

"Has the republican party ever recognized the substantial white citizenship of Georgia? Has the republican party ever recognized the political capacity of any of our white men and women as its leaders in Georgia? Has the republican party ever recognized the claims of the south and Georgia? Has not instead their answer been their political bosses in Georgia? Have we not now as heretofore been the party of Georgia, and acknowledged and recognized by Mr. Hoover—Ben Davis and Mamie Williams? By Hoover president, the heads of our politics, the ones to whom we would go for aid and assistance in national affairs in our state would be Ben Davis and Mamie Williams. Don't fool yourself on that score—and I am going to tell you why."

Hoover on Negro.

"The Washington Post, a republican paper by the way, on March 31, 1928, carried this article, which burned deep in the hearts of loyal democrats:

"Hoover changes racial policy in census office."

"Colored clerks now in all departments; administrative position sought."

"And that article showed that Mr. Hoover, the then secretary of commerce, issued an order abolishing segregation and racial discrimination in the department. That white women and colored women, white men and colored men were all placed in the same offices; used the same rest rooms; and were thrown in daily contact with each other. No, my friends, that is the man, who asks Georgia democrats to vote for him."

"Now, we come to the democratic candidates. The man whom Ellhu Root, the great leader of the republican party, said that if Governor Smith had been an Englishman he would have been elevated to the peerage for his constructive leadership and service to the people."

"And to women there are some of the reasons:

Smith As Leader.

"He called the legislature in special session in 1919, when he was governor, in order to record New York among the first states to ratify the woman suffrage amendment."

"As legislator he secured laws eliminating the evils of child labor; limiting hours of labor for women and children; prohibiting night work for women and establishing widow's pensions"

INTEREST IS SHOWN IN JAYCEES' DRIVE

Optimistic Reports Made at First Luncheon in 500-Member Campaign.

Reports for the opening day of the junior chamber of commerce membership drive disclosed a widespread interest in the movement as more than a hundred workers gathered at the first drive luncheon Tuesday in the Chamber of Commerce building.

R. C. Cutler carried the first prize honors for obtaining most membership applications from the time of launching the drive Monday night until the luncheon Tuesday. He was presented with a pair of shoes, while Henry G. Turner, bringing the second highest number of applicants, was given a silver belt buckle. The workers will compete in daily contests until winding up of the campaign Friday night, by which time it is hoped to have 500 new members enrolled in the local junior chamber.

According to S. E. Marshall, director of publicity for the drive, initial reports by the 12 teams of workers indicate the campaign quota of 500 new members will be reached before the time limit set for the drive. The workers will report progress at a special campaign luncheon today and again at the regular Thursday midweek meeting. On Friday night results of the campaign will be announced with a celebration at East Lake, feature a dance for old and new members of the chamber. Another high light of the junior chamber's activities announced at the luncheon Tuesday will be the annual fall golf tournament beginning with qualifying rounds at East Lake Monday and continuing with match play on Tuesday and Thursday.

The meeting will be presided over by Mr. Johnston.

An address by Benjamin S. Barker, executive vice president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, struck a chord of enthusiasm at the luncheon Tuesday. He outlined methods employed during the recent membership drive of the senior chamber and discussed the auspicious opening of the junior drive. Cyril Dieter, chairman of the membership campaign, presided.

Entertainment for the gathering was furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Major, Brunswick photographer artists appearing this week at the Georgia theater, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Kimbro and other local talent.

AUTO CRASH DRIVER GIVEN 2-TO-5 YEARS

Ed Smith Convicted on Felony Count in Superior Court.

Ed Smith, charged with driving the car which struck a machine occupied by G. W. McDaniel, of 846 Ashland, N. E., and Mrs. M. C. Rutledge, of 1074 Boulevard, S. E., on April 24, at Martin and Woodward avenue, was convicted on a felony count Tuesday by a jury in Fulton superior court and was sentenced to two to five years for "assault with reckless disregard for human life."

Smith's indictment was worded according to a new departure of the solicitor-general's office. Previously, it had been found that it was hard to get a felony conviction in automobile cases where "assault with intent to murder" was charged, the jury balked at the "intent to murder." However, under the new wording of this type of indictment, the same ground is covered in a fashion which more accurately meets the demands of such cases, it was said.

Smith denied having been the driver of the car, alleging that a man named "Will" had taken the car without his consent. An eye witness, however, told of speaking to Smith at the scene of the accident, the witness stating that he asked Smith how the accident happened, and that Smith said he was "learning to drive." The state charged that Smith was driving the car at a rate of 40 to 45 miles an hour. Smith admitted ownership of the machine. The case was tried before Judge E. D. Thomas.

The Packard Standard Eight Club Sedan

- the long awaited STANDARD EIGHT

EVERYTHING that was expected and more is found in Packard's newest achievement, the Packard Standard Eight.

All of the characteristic grace and distinction of Packard lines are retained, for Packard beauty is established—and it is not the Packard policy to depreciate cars in the hands of owners by radical and needless changes in design.

The new Standard Eight powerplant, with its nine-bearing crankshaft, is a marvel of clean-cut and compact simplicity, with a surprisingly low operation and maintenance cost.

And the Packard Standard Eight provides, as does the Custom line, the new and exclusive Packard Shock Absorbing System, a unique combination of inventions which are almost magical in their effects. Not only is the car completely cushioned against road shocks, but steering shocks are cancelled—steering "shimmy" is impossible. Today's Packard cars are literally, and without qualification, the easiest riding cars in the world—as well as the safest.

We want you to drive the new Standard Eight—experience for yourself its superb performance and unequalled comfort, the luxury of its deep new cushions and the beauty of its appointments. We know you will then be satisfied with nothing less than a Packard.

MARINE STANDARDS LESS RIGID, GAIN IN RECRUITS SEEN

Following the receipt of a new order from Washington which changes the marine recruiting standards, marine officials here are expecting a large increase in the number of enlistments in the near future. It was learned Tuesday that the new entrance requirements are a little less rigid, in that applicants with a slight physical defect, which heretofore would have disqualified them, now may be accepted upon waiver. Two men were accepted the day the new order was received, which officials consider a very good start for the coming month.

Captain George W. Spotts, officer in charge of the marine corps recruiting station, at 79 1-2 South Forsyth street, announced Tuesday that 42 applicants had been accepted from the Atlanta district during the month of September and transferred to Parris Island, S. C., for training, and no difficulty is anticipated in filling the district quota of 50 men this month.

CONVICT, ESSAYING HORSEBACK ESCAPE, GIVEN MORE "TIME"

James Kirkland, convict from Jones county, thought that he would emulate Paul Revere and ride a horse during his first attempt to shake the dust of the convict camp from his feet, it was revealed Tuesday when Kirkland pleaded guilty before Judge John D. Humphries to charges of horse-stealing.

At the solicitor-general's office it was said that Kirkland stole a mule belonging to J. Ross, of Cascade road, during his get-away from Jones county. Captured and returned to the camp, Kirkland escaped again and was still gone when his case was called for trial here. He was recaptured, however, and brought here to answer the horse-stealing charge. Judge Humphries gave Kirkland a sentence of 12 months, to follow the present term.

S. Carnes, alleged defaulting treasurer of the Baptist Home Mission board.

Edwin F. Johnson, member of the commission, who was nominated for county tax receiver in the primary, probably will indicate to the commission today the date of his retirement from the board. FIRST CLASS IS HELD IN LANGUAGE SCHOOL

Actual work in the new foreign language school organized under the auspices of the Atlanta Foreign Trade club began at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night, when Major K. B. Ferguson inaugurated his class in advanced German. An enrollment of nearly 50 was recorded at a meeting held Monday night and the school will continue through the first of the year, it was announced. This number is expected to be augmented by those who were unable to attend the opening meeting.

Harry C. Mitchell, district manager of the United States department of commerce, addressed the group on the value of a knowledge of modern languages in international commerce, following which each of the professors who are to conduct the classes in the new school said a few words in regard to the practical utility of his respective language. A schedule of classes then was arranged to suit the convenience of the majority enrolling in each subject.

It was pointed out by the officers of the Foreign Trade club that the language school does not intend to compete with the regular academic work being carried on by the established schools and colleges of Atlanta.

SHAVING FRICTION

BETWEEN your fingers you can feel an important new benefit given by Listerine Shaving Cream. It lubricates the skin!

Your very first shave will prove what an achievement that is. Instead of painful rasp and pull, instead of burning friction as the razor is dragged across your face, you will experience a new sensation of easy and smooth sailing for the blade when it slides on the lubricating lather of Listerine cream.

Right at the cutting line of each hair, where friction between blade and beard is usually greatest, this luxurious cream deposits a velvety film of glycerine. This does more than soothe the skin. It prepares the path of the razor.

Cut up or down, with the grain or against it, in any direction the sharp steel edge glides as if on roller bearings, fairly wiping the whiskers off. And your tender skin is protected by that salve-like film of cosmetic lubricant.

Besides, there is no need to change your shaving habits in using Listerine Cream. Hot water or cold, rubbing-in or not, lotions or none; suit your own old preference. And you will discover in Listerine lather an amazingly quick tamer of tough beards, a cool and gentle soother of tender skins, an antiseptic healer of careless nicks and abrasions. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo.

157 luxurious shaves in the economical 50¢ tube

If it were not just about the last word in shaving cream perfection, it would never have earned the right to be called by the Listerine name. So zealously do we guard the famed Listerine reputation for quality.

That is why Listerine Shaving Cream sells for 50¢ and is worth every penny of it. It is no 25¢ or 35¢ product, but a concentrated blend of costly ingredients. And it appeals most to men who appreciate quality in every thing they use. Yet its economy is obvious. For the big white tube is crammed with 118 inches of velvety cream, good for 157 shaves. That's more than a five-months' supply, and makes the cost only 10¢ a month. Ask for Listerine Shaving Cream at any drug or department store.

CENSUS BUREAU GIVES POPULATION ESTIMATES

Five Cities Are Credited With More Than Million Residents.

Washington, October 2.—(AP)—City populations of the United States, estimated as of July 1, 1928, were reported today by the census bureau. Five American metropolitan centers, headed by New York with a total of 6,017,500 persons, were credited with more than a million residents—Chicago with 3,157,400, Philadelphia with 2,064,200, Detroit with 1,378,000, and Cleveland with 1,010,300.

The census bureau explained that its 1928 estimates were based in part on calculations of population growth rates indicated by the 1920 federal census, by the results of intervening state census returns, and by studies of local conditions. Notwithstanding, in the case of a few cities the bureau refused to make any 1928 estimate because of "exceptional conditions of growth," or because of indicated population loss. After the leading five cities, the estimates showed a large group of American cities possessing more than a half million people, the list including St. Louis, 548,100; Baltimore, 530,400; Boston, 799,200; Pittsburgh, 678,800; San Francisco, 585,500; Buffalo, 555,800; Washington, D. C., 532,000; and Milwaukee, 544,200. No estimate was given for Los Angeles which in 1920 had a population of 576,673.

In all, the 1928 report listed 262 American cities having more than 30,000 population in 1920, and for most of them gave the comparative estimate of their total in 1928.

The following list gives estimate of population of southern cities:

Alabama—Birmingham, 222,400; Mobile, 69,600; Montgomery, 63,100; Arkansas—Little Rock, 79,200;

Georgia Kiwanis Inter-Club Dance Is Gala Occasion

Fun and jollity reigned supreme Tuesday night at the annual inter-club dinner-dance of the Georgia Kiwanis clubs at the Dribble Hills Country club, with more than 400 guests from 18 clubs present for the festivities.

The affair, purely social, is given here every year to promote friendly relationship and cooperation between the various Kiwanis clubs of the state.

One of the highlights of the program was a stunt in which John O. DuPre, prominent Atlanta real estate man, was "shot" by Joseph Reed in a row which began over a speech which Mr. DuPre was making. So realistic was the argument and the phony "shooting" that pandemonium held sway for a few minutes, and not until a special Kiwanis edition of The Constitution, giving the full details of the "attempted murder," was rushed in and sold by newsboys did the guests catch on to the hoax.

This edition of The Constitution, printed especially for the occasion, contained Kiwanis news and bright bits about Kiwanians on the front page.

The visitors were made welcome in an address by Dr. Jere M. Pound, president of the Georgia State Normal school, at Athens, lieutenant governor of the northern district of Georgia Kiwanis clubs, who emphasized the plans for the Georgia district convention to be held in Athens, October 17-19. Robert M. Jones, Jr., chairman of the board of the local club, also made an address of welcome.

The dinner-dance was given under the auspices of the inter-club relations committee, which is composed of Gerald M. Goodman, chairman; Forrest Taylor, Arthur Faulkner, Fred Coolidge, and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Jennings. It was a gala occasion, many prominent Georgians and their wives attending. Among the leading Kiwanians present were W. A. Dozier, of Flovilla, secretary of the Georgia district; Arthur L. Brooke, of Atlanta, past governor of the district, and J. A. Tutwiler, of Athens, president of the club in that city, who will be official host to the district convention.

Rudy Brown's orchestra furnished music for dancing. It was announced by Mr. Goodman that approximately $100 was raised for the Home for the Friendless from the sale of the fake edition of The Constitution at the dinner, the newsboys having been boys from the institution.

Aswell, Louisiana, Declares G. O. P. Nominee Backed President Once.

New Orleans, October 2.—(AP)—Representative Aswell, democrat, Louisiana, issued a statement here today in which he said Herbert Hoover supported every act of the Wilson administration and charged that "it is cowardly for him now to attack the Wilson administration of which he was an active part."

The statement said:

"The election of Al Smith and the national democratic ticket would bring:

"1. Honesty in government inside and out, from top to bottom with equal opportunity for all, the money changers at Washington driven out, the temple cleansed.

"2. Vigorous law enforcement.

"3. Full recognition of the rights of women.

"4. Assured white supremacy in the south.

"5. The destruction of private monopolies and the lobby vultures at Washington.

"6. Flood control works and internal waterway systems promptly completed, and our water power developed for electric power and cheap fertilizer.

"7. A national marketing system for agriculture, aided by the government, reaching both foreign and domestic markets, and giving the producer a just share in the profits of his labor.

"8. Recognition and helpful cooperation with labor.

"9. International cooperation, world markets and a normal flow of international trade.

"10. Tariff adjustment so that farmers and all others can buy in a competitive market.

"11. Railroads and water rates readjusted and reduced for buyer and seller.

"12. Taxation, direct and indirect, reduced to the minimum, and strict economy in governmental expenditures."

Fun and jollity reigned supreme Tuesday night at the annual inter-club dinner-dance of the Georgia Kiwanis clubs at the Dribble Hills Country club, with more than 400 guests from 18 clubs present for the festivities.

The affair, purely social, is given here every year to promote friendly relationship and cooperation between the various Kiwanis clubs of the state.

One of the highlights of the program was a stunt in which John O. DuPre, prominent Atlanta real estate man, was "shot" by Joseph Reed in a row which began over a speech which Mr. DuPre was making. So realistic was the argument and the phony "shooting" that pandemonium held sway for a few minutes, and not until a special Kiwanis edition of The Constitution, giving the full details of the "attempted murder," was rushed in and sold by newsboys did the guests catch on to the hoax.

TEXAS FRATERNITIES MAY BE BANISHED

Investigation To Be Started in Fatal Initiation of Student.

Austin, Texas, October 2.—(AP)—The board of regents of the University of Texas at its next meeting, October 28, may decide whether Greek letter "boarding" fraternities will be allowed to remain on the campus.

The regents' action followed the death of Nolte McElroy, 10-year-old sophomore, by electric shock during a supposedly harmless initiation stunt by the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity Sunday night which called forth anti-fraternity sentiment. An unsuccessful attempt was made several years ago in the Texas legislature to eliminate Greek letter organizations from the university.

Former Federal Judge R. L. Batts, regent who introduced the investigation resolution, would comment on it only sparingly today. He is a fraternity member as are all other members of the board except two.

"There have been abuses out there that need to be corrected," he said. "As a board member I am not familiar with the existing situation and a faculty committee should investigate and make recommendations."

Other regents, including M. E. Foster, Houston editor; R. L. Holliday, El Paso, and Sam Neuhery, also indicated themselves as being substantially in accord with Judge Batts. President Benedict has declined to comment on the situation.

GOVERNOR SMITH GETS BACK HOME AFTER LONG TOUR

Albany, N. Y., October 2.—Governor Smith returned home tonight from his first campaign tour as a presidential nominee. After an absence from Albany of 16 days he was welcomed at the station by a negro band and a crowd of enthusiastic democrats.

The democratic standard bearer, his wife, and daughter, Mrs. John A. Warner, who had covered more than 6,000 miles, most of it west of the Mississippi, went immediately to the executive mansion. As they walked down the station platform surrounded by friends and through the thronged waiting room they were cheered, and an even more demonstrative welcome was given them by the crowd massed around the station entrance.

There was red fire, flashlights of photographers, band music and cheering as Governor Smith and his wife entered their automobile. The governor stood up waving his fedora hat and smiled broadly as the crowd hooped it up.

In the throng was a sign which read: "You Have Won the West and the East Is Yours."

What Metcalf Says Is So!

All day long yesterday I sold $20 silk-lined Topcoats for ten dollars and eighty-five cents, and I'm gonna do it again today. The college man, the middle-aged man and old grandpa are all coming to see Metcalf, this time with the sack in his hand. We can fit all of 'em—slim, slims and regulars. Beautiful shades of gray, tan mixtures and navy blues for ten dollars and eighty-five cents instead of twenty.

The most satisfied customer yesterday was the busy business man who confidentially said to me, "Metcalf, I didn't intend to buy one this fall, 'cause I owe money that I ought to pay, but when I saw your offer of $20 Topcoats for $10.85 I changed my mind and decided to give you the sack and let 'em wait."

Maybe you, too, "old man," are in the same boat, and maybe you ain't makin' as much money now as you did last year, so let's pay cash and save half—WHAT DO YOU SAY?

COOLIDGE CRASH VICTIM IS WORSE

President Sends Personal Physician; Secretary Telephones Him.

New Haven, Conn., October 2.—(United News.)—Complications in the auto accident which involved John Coolidge, son of the president, were feared today with the report that Mrs. Mary Veno, 56, a victim of the crash, had suddenly taken a turn for the worse.

Everett Sanders, secretary to the president, and Major James S. Coughlin, the chief executive's personal physician, arrived here secretly late Monday, it was learned today, and Sanders held a long distance conversation of 10 minutes with the white house shortly after noon. Mrs. Veno was to have been released from the hospital today as her condition had been reported satisfactory. Her release, however, brought the announcement that she would be held indefinitely.

San Francisco, October 2.—(AP)—Coast guardsmen grappling in the waters of Belvedere cove today recovered the bodies of Lieutenant Paul L. Woodruff, army aviator, and Miss Grinnell Heimann, society girl, who were drowned while canoeing on San Francisco bay last Friday night.

Search for the flier and Miss Heimann was begun after their canoe was found washed ashore Saturday.

LARGE RADIO CHAINS PLANNING EXPANSION

NBC and Columbia Systems To Increase National Networks.

BY MARTIN CODEL.
(Copyright, 1929, by the North American Newspaper Alliance and The Constitution.)

Washington, October 2.—National wide bookings as a nightly occurrence and other expansion plans of the broadcasting networks radiating out of New York city were announced today by officials of the leading chains while they were in Washington in connection with the chain station restriction order imposed by the federal radio commission.

Not only will the radio audience west of the Rockies be able to tune in a New York program at stated hours each evening, but Columbia listeners may soon be able to hear those programs from their own stations, according to the president of the National Broadcasting company, M. H. Aylesworth. This organization has 55 stations in its "red," "blue" and "white" coast networks.

The Columbia broadcasting system, now noted chiefly for its superior musical offerings, proposes to add many new stations to its string and has already embarked upon a policy of greater program diversity. This chain, the only large rival of the N. B. C., consists of 21 stations, extending as far west as Kansas City.

Most of the expansion plans of the chain organizations depend upon the practical effects of the reallocation of next November 11. This will bring about a change in the wave lengths or power assignments of most of their member stations, along with nearly all other broadcasting stations in the United States.

Since the commercial existence of the chains depends upon the audience "coverage" they can insure their significant to them.

Will Keep Church

Dr. S. Parkes Cadman Will Also Be on Air.

New York, October 2.—(AP)—Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, turning today from three religious conferences abroad, said he would not resign as pastor of the Central Congregational church in Brooklyn to devote his whole time to radio broadcasting.

Report that Dr. Cadman would quit his pastorate became current recently when the National Broadcasting company announced he would conduct Sunday services at a number of questions over its network. He had previously broadcast services from a Brooklyn Y. M. C. A. Dr. Cadman will begin his new work on October 14, but he indicated definitely it would not affect his connection with the Central Congregational church.

WRIT TO OUST KOHLER IS ASKED IN WISCONSIN

Madison, Wis., October 2.—(AP)—On the claim that Walter J. Kohler, re-elected, an nominee for governor, had violated the corrupt practices act, a writ of mandamus was filed today asking the supreme court to order that the secretary of state cancel his certification of nomination.

The writ was filed by Fred M. Wylie, Madison attorney. His claim that the nominee, conservative republican, and millionaire manufacturer, violated the corrupt practices act, was based on 10 charges. Justice Marvin H. Rosenberry signed the mandamus order.

It was the understanding here that even though Kohler's name be cancelled, he could run as an independent candidate but that the second highest for the nomination, Joseph D. Beck, progressive, would be the nominee.

14-YEAR-OLD GIRL DISAPPEARS; HUNT STARTED IN E A S T

New York, October 2.—(AP)—Police in three states began a search today for Virginia Roseman, 14-year-old adopted daughter of Mrs. Ann Roseman, of New York. The girl disappeared on the way from the home of her father, J. W. Roseman, of Princeton, W. Va., to join Mr. Roseman here.

After taking a train from Princeton last Friday, the girl, apparently alone, was seen in the Roanoke, Va., where she was to change trains and write from there to her father on the stationery of the Patrick Henry Hotel, Roanoke. She failed to arrive here and police of Princeton, Roanoke and this city were notified.

Mrs. Roseman, whose husband is the head of the Roseman company, Broadway rubber goods supply house, told police the child had been attending school at the Ursuline convent, Columbia, S. C., she had spent most of the summer visiting her father and other relatives.

BECKHAM THROWS SUPPORT TO SMITH IN KENTUCKY RACE

Louisville, Ky., October 2.—(AP)—J. C. W. Beckham, former governor and United States senator, and a leader in Kentucky prohibition ranks, today announced his support of Governor Alfred E. Smith, democratic presidential nominee. Mr. Beckham's announcement was in the form of a letter to Senator Allen W. Barkley, W. Barkley, democratic state campaign chairman.

Mr. Beckham said of Smith: "He would rank among the greatest of our presidents. I cheerfully support him, not merely for party reasons, but because I believe that he has proved himself to be one of the greatest executives this country has produced in the present generation, and that as president of the United States he would give us such a honest, businesslike and successful administration of our national affairs as he has given New York state as governor."

While differing from Governor Smith on the question of prohibition, Mr. Beckham said he does not consider that as "the real issue in the campaign," and urged Kentucky democrats not to be "lured away from their party by false issues and discreditable whippersnappers about Governor Smith's religion."

A. E. JONES PRESIDENT SEA ISLAND COMPANY

Development work on two or three islands in which the company is interested was reported as progressing satisfactorily.

Whippet Starts Long Grind at Fair

Here's the start of the 128-hour drive of Earl Napoleon Williams on a small track in view of the crowds at the Southeastern fair in a stock Whippet Four sedan. The drive is scheduled to end Saturday night at 10 o'clock, the start being at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. Dave R. Yantis, left, retail salesman of the LeRoux Motor company, local Whippet distributor, and Officer H. F. Brown, at right, watch Policeman A. G. Stone handcuff Williams to the steering wheel as the long grind began. Williams, who holds the world's endurance driving record, will stop his Whippet only for gas, oil and water. At the close he will be taken in an ambulance to the LeRoux company's display windows, where he will sleep and regain his strength in view of the public.

Erlanger.

Martin Johnson, whose marvelous big game hunting picture, "Simba," is at the Erlanger theater for the second and last week, is very strong for the lion. In his travels through the jungles he has become intimately acquainted with lions as well as other jungle animals, and his finding is that the lion is the best of the lot, a true sportsman.

Coming to the Erlanger.

There will be a silent drama at the Erlanger theater next Monday night, October 5, and twice daily thereafter at 2:30 and 8:30, and while the theater may be "silent" and "dark," it will be far from closed, for the entertainment will consist of a motion picture entitled "Wings," in which the battle of St. Mihiel is a most prominent feature. Mail orders accompanied by remittance are now being received. Box office seat sale opens Thursday morning.

Keith's Georgia.

Keith's Georgia is presenting this week a program of unusual strength on both the stage and screen. George Bancroft in "The Docks of New York" with Bacanova and Betty Compton is the screen entertainment. "Wilder's Opry," the hilarious travesty on the old-time variety shows, is the stage headliner. Other acts on the bill are Jack Major, the Brunswick recording artist; Lou Cameron, "The Pride of the Clan"; Northland and Ward, and Dallas Walker and sister.

Loew's Capitol.

Five extra strong vaudeville acts are on the program at Loew's Capitol theater this week, the headliner being Carl McCullough, musical comedy star. McCullough offers a series of clever travesties. The Loew feature picture is "Our Dancing Daughters," with Joan Crawford, Johnny Mack Brown, Dorothy Sebastian, Nils Asther and Anita Page.

Howard.

Warner Brothers second 100 per cent all-talking picture, "The Terrible," is the highly entertaining screen attraction at the Howard theater this week. In the picture you hear every character and title, a single title appears. Among those heard are May McAvoy, Everett Edwards, Horton, Louise Fazenda and Alec B. Francis. The story of the picture is one of mystery from the pen of Edgar Wallace. It is from the stage play of the same name that has played three years on a London stage.

Loew's Grand.

"The Mysterious Lady" will fill the last day of its return engagement in Atlanta at Loew's Grand theater Wednesday. Greta Garbo and Conrad Nagel appear in the leading roles in a stirring romance with Miss Garbo playing the role of a beautiful Russian spy.

Metropolitan.

A brilliant story of a love that thwarted the desires of revolutionists and brought together a man and a woman as far apart as the planets, but closer together than imaginable, is told in "The Scarlet Lady," now being shown at the Metropolitan. Lea de Putti and Don Alvarado are starred. The Florentine choir is the featured act on the Vitaphone.

Alamo No. 2.

The problems of the modern girl in a world that is teeming with new ideas concerning the relations of men and women are ably depicted in the latest story, "The Crystal Cup," which comes to the Alamo No. 2 theater today. Dorothy Mackall and Jack Muhlhall are the protagonists in this First National picture.

Cameo.

The hard-boiled Sergeant Quirt of "What Price Glory" has become a suave young man about town, for Edmund Lowe, two-fisted soldier of this war story, is now appearing in a drastically different characterization in support of Colleen Moore in "Happiness Ahead," showing at the Cameo today.

Empire.

Colleen Moore in her greatest comedy achievement, "Trene," will be today's attraction at the new Empire theater, corner of Georgia avenue and Crew street. The central episode of the film is a fashion show in natural

MAJOR J. C. C. BLACK RITES HELD TUESDAY

Augusta, Ga., October 2.—(Special).—Funeral services were held here this afternoon for Major James C. C. Black, dean of the Augusta Bar association, who died Monday.

Services were held at the First Baptist church, of which he was chairman of the board of deacons for many years.

Major Black was 87 years of age, having been born in Kentucky. He entered the practice of law here and held many public offices though in his later years refusing many places tendered him, including an appointment to the bench as superior court judge.

Major Black served through the war between the states in the Confederate army as a private. He entered the army after graduating from Georgetown college in 1859, receiving his diploma after peace was declared.

It was not until he reached Augusta, in 1865, that he was located, that he decided to become a lawyer. He entered practice here in 1866. The same desk with which he furnished his first office in the bank was purchased with money borrowed from a friend—was in his possession until the great fire of 1910, which burned the building in which he was located.

Many offices of public trust were held by Major Black during his long life of 87 years. He was a member of congress for one term, declining to run for reelection. His opponent was the late Thomas E. Watson, and their debates have been an epic in the south's congressional history.

He was also appointed by Governor Northern to pass on the claim of the lessees of the Western and Atlantic railroad.

Residing here, James C. C. Black, Jr., who is at present judge of the Richmond county city court, Major Black is survived by two daughters, Miss Katie Black and Mrs. Thomas D. Carey, of Augusta; one half-sister, Mrs. Sallie B. Hodges, of Louisville, Kentucky.

'LOVE POWDER' CASE COMES TO TRIAL IN NORTH CAROLINA

Charlotte, N. C., October 2.—(AP)—Introduction of a can of poison with which the state alleges M. Lockmy was poisoned by the trio of defendants in the "love powder" cases marked the morning session of the second day of the trial of Sam V. Daniels, alias "Professor Brandorine," and Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Preslar, charged with murder.

The can of poison was introduced by the state as an exhibit during the testimony of Frank Littlejohn, Charlotte city detective, who said that he found it in the fortune-telling studio of "Professor Brandorine" when he was arrested.

The detective followed Dr. John Q. Myers to the witness stand. The doctor, testifying as an expert witness, said that he had examined the body of Lockmy just prior to his death and of the conditions surrounding his death. He finished his testimony yesterday and completed his answer to cross-examination shortly after court opened Monday.

Littlejohn also related the details of his picking up the trio in the case and of following the "love doctor" in building up the case.

MARKET EDITOR DIES

C. W. Barron Was Wall Street Journal Publisher.

Battle Creek, Mich., October 2.—(AP) Clarence W. Barron, financial authority and editor of the Wall Street Journal, and a number of other financial publications, died tonight at a local sanitarium. He had been in a state of coma for the last 48 hours, rallying but once.

Mr. Barron, who had been a frequent visitor here, was brought to the sanitarium three weeks ago, then very ill.

Original gowns are worn by Miss Moore and by 60 Hollywood beauties.

Tudor.

"Roaring Bronzes," the new Buffalo Bill picture showing at the Tudor, today gets its title from the cow-country's name for motorcycles, and that is where part of the comedy comes in. On the ranch, Bill, being an ex-cowboy, is able to hold his own with the other ranch hands.

Ponce de Leon.

The strangest love scene ever made in Hollywood is an important part of Colleen Moore's "Naughty But Nice," now showing at the Ponce de Leon theater.

Colleen is the girl in the scene, and Donald Reed, new, good-looking, six-foot screen leading man, is the other person involved. It is absolutely unique, particularly in the technique displayed by Reed in his efforts to gain his lady's love. The new Empire feature, with Thomas Ince in a big newspaper film, "Not for Publication,"

Light Drizzles To Fall Today, Says Forecast

Atlanta and Georgia will share with the rest of the southeastern section a day of unsettled weather, marked by cloudy skies and a threat of light drizzles, according to the forecast issued today by C. F. von Herrmann, meteorologist of the local United States station.

Uncertain atmospheric conditions are to prevail in this area, the weather man said. Clouds will keep the temperature moderately cool while indicating possible drizzles, although any rainfall will be negligible, Mr. von Herrmann predicted.

On Tuesday the mercury column began at a low of 58 degrees and never exceeded the 66-degree mark in its fluctuations during the day, the weather man reported, predicting no noticeable change in temperature for today.

CUT RATES BRING THROWS TO FAIR

festive scene Tuesday. Johnny Lee and his Southeastern fair band added to the enthusiasm of the spectators during intervals of the elaborate grandstand performances. At this corner of the fair the program lasted for the day, automobile races, and automobile polo, balloon ascension and triple parachute jump, a bicycle race between Bobby Walther and the Italian champion, Vincent Cassella, and fireworks display.

Miss Elfrida Mais, world's champion woman driver, who battled the sea of mud Tuesday for a faster mile than the men drove, will start against a field of male drivers in the "Straw Hat Derby," a novelty race, during the auto races today.

The "Bobby Jones Sweepstakes" will be the feature event, to be run in two preliminaries and a final heat. Another elimination heat of the Southern Championship will be run, to select another starter in the finals Saturday when the southern title will be decided. There will also be a game of auto polo in today's auto race card, starting at 2:30.

A peak of the agricultural interests at the fair is expected to be witnessed today when farmers from agricultural centers in all portions of the southeast gather here to view famous farm products, placed in competition for the annual prize offerings.

An agricultural feature scheduled for Farmers' day will be the judging of Guernsey breed cattle. Some of the finest specimens of this class are reported to be on exhibit at the Southeastern fair this year.

The large grandstand program, and midway shows and attractions will supplement the agricultural and industrial offerings.

One of the most attractive and outstanding exhibits in the agricultural building at the Southeastern Fair is the large apple display by the Consolidated Apple Growers' Exchange, of Corvallis, J. Frank Beck is president of the exchange and the display is under the supervision of Troy G. Chastain and Charley Chambers.

The apple display is one of the largest in recent years and every variety of apple grown in north Georgia is on display.

On the right side of the exhibit is the word "Georgia," worked in large bright green apples, with red apples for a background, while below the name of the state is a large heart attractively designed in different colored apples.

All of the apples in the display will be sold immediately after the fair is over and officials in charge of the exhibit are taking orders every day at the fair, to be delivered anywhere in the city.

Another attractive exhibit in the agricultural building is the one near the entrance under the direction of the State College of Agriculture, of Athens. The exhibit is unusually well arranged and has won favorable comment from thousands of fair visitors.

Rolling Pin Tossing.

A novelty feature of the Sears-Roebuck broadcast from its studio at the Southeastern Fair today through the courtesy of WSB, the Atlanta Journal station, will be a rolling pin tossing contest for married women only. Every potential rolling pin thrower in the state is eligible to participate and a cash prize of $5 will be given to the winner.

Two other cash prizes will be given to the next best pin throwers. Attractively painted rolling pins also will be given to the first three winners.

Another of the novelty contests will be a hog calling contest for men only, with prizes of $10, $5 and $3, and a husband calling contest for women only with $10, $5 and $3 for cash prizes.

The contests will start at 11:30 o'clock in the manufacturers' exhibit, where the Sears-Roebuck exhibit is located, and the audience will be the most generous applause.

is located, and the audience will be the most generous applause.

Willie Wilkerson, official announcer for the Sears, Roebuck company, will be in charge of the program.

All fiddlers in the state are invited to participate in a fiddling contest at 8 o'clock tonight in the Sears-Roebuck studio. A cash prize of $15 will be given to the best fiddler, with $10 and $5 for the next best fiddlers. A special prize of $5 will be given to the best accompanist.

Colored Exhibit.

One of the most complete colored exhibits ever assembled is being shown at the Southeastern Fair this week in the basement of the agricultural building by the various colored institutions along educational and agricultural lines.

Exhibits in the department include household necessities, canned fruits and vegetables, jams, marmalades, jelly, bread, dairy, domestic arts, needle work of all kinds, and an excellent collection of the best dairy and farm products.

The exhibit not only is a source of pride and inspiration but it will afford great satisfaction to the thousands of visitors to the fair who are interested in the progress of negroes along educational and agricultural lines.

Officials of the fair after a careful inspection of the colored exhibits, stated Monday, that it was one of the greatest array of exhibits ever shown in that department at the Southeastern Fair.

1868—to 1928—Clothing Merchants for 60 Years, in Atlanta

Somewhere, within the bounds of price-range logic, is a rational limitation—maximum and minimum—for the judicious expenditure of clothes-money.

From the standpoint of economy, it matters not a farthing how affluent or necessitous one may be, those limitations, whatever they are, are well-nigh inflexible.

What those limitations are, or should be, probably is a debatable subject, but as for ourselves, we have found the answer—

$35 to $50

In our opinion, thirty-five dollars is the minimum sum for which one can reasonably expect to buy a fall or winter suit that comprises a full measure of the essential requirements—style—quality—service—satisfaction.

By the same token, fifty dollars, we believe, will purchase the maximum of those four essential requirements, therefore, totally unnecessary, if not unreasonable, for any one to pay more. So—

Our price range—established on the basis of sound reasoning—is

The new Steinite Electric AC Radio is America's greatest radio value. You need only see and hear it to understand the sensational popularity which has made Steinite a famous name in radio.

The new Steinite is simple—as no other set ever has been. It is sturdy—far sturdier than others think a set need be. It is so natural in tone and so thrilling in results that you will find a new pleasure in radio.

Besides, it is beautiful. The table model is of Tanglewood, most beautiful of all Philippine woods. The consoles are made of American black walnut veneers with burl walnut overlays. All models are finished in genuine Duco to enhance and preserve the original beauty of these fine woods.

The single illuminated drum dial, the wonderful new volume control, the antenna compensator and switch are all conveniently grouped within the richly finished antique bronze escutcheon plate—controlled from your finger tips. A phonograph jack for reproducing records through the receiver with a magnetic pick-up is conveniently placed.

The tone of the new Steinite is so utterly natural that listening to it is an adventure. It comes to your ears with a reality that you dare not question. It is pure, rich, glorious. Whether it is the lowest note of a pipe organ, or the highest trill of a soprano, the notes come to you unmarred by annoying hum or mechanical noise.

The splendid audio system of the Steinite—worthy of sets costing far more—has brought this amazing tone to Steinite owners.

In the Steinite, wondrous tone is accompanied by super-performance and beauty of design which makes it America's Greatest Radio Value.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

MRS. MUSKRAT JOINS JERRY.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Misery makes one forlorn.

By two it is much better borne.

—Jerry Muskrat.

Jerry Muskrat was sitting at the edge of the water out on the Green Meadows as discouraged and unhappy a Muskrat as ever lived. It had stopped raining, but the water was still rising. The Smiling Pool was now a small lake on the Green Meadows. Not even the tops of the bulrushes were to be seen. Jerry's fine new house that he had worked so hard to build was entirely under water. Jerry had nowhere to go and he didn't know what to do.

By and by Jerry discovered a little brown head, or rather he discovered a nose and just the top of a little brown head coming his way. He began to feel better. "Misery loves company, you know, and he had recognized Mrs. Muskrat. Presently she swam ashore beside him.

"I was wondering about you, my dear," squeaked Jerry. "Did the water get up in the hole in the bank?"

"Of course it did," replied Mrs. Muskrat in the same squeaky tone of voice. "Did it get up in that 'and new house of yours?"

Jerry nodded miserably. "It covered it," said he. "For all I know, it may have washed away."

"Well, there's one satisfaction, it can't wash away a hole in a bank," declared Mrs. Muskrat. "I always did think you were wasting your time building that new house. But the question now is, what are we going to do next? We can't sit here, for the first thing we know Reddy Fox will be sneaking over here. It isn't safe. We have got to go somewhere where we can keep out of sight."

"Quite true, my dear, quite true," said Jerry. "Dr. if we can't keep out of sight, we have got to be where the water is deep enough so that we can dive or swim. There's a log floating out there. Let's swim over to that and sit there until we decide what we want to do."

So Jerry and Mrs. Muskrat swam out to the log and climbed up on it. Out there they had nothing to worry about from Reddy Fox or from Old Man Coyote. In fact, they were quite safe from any of their enemies. But they didn't like it. They didn't like sitting right out in the open that way. Then, too, they were hungry, and they didn't know where to go to get anything to eat. You see, all their usual good supplies were under water now.

"My, but I'm hungry!" said Mrs. Muskrat.

"So am I!" said Jerry. "Look, my dear. The water is almost over to Farmer Brown's cornfield. If I remember rightly, there are carrots at one end of it—the end nearest the water."

"Carrots! Did you say carrots?" exclaimed Mrs. Muskrat. "Are you sure there are carrots over there? If there are carrots, there I'm going straight over there this very minute."

She plunged from her end of the log and started to swim in the direction of Farmer Brown's cornfield. Jerry hesitated a moment or two and then followed. Together they swam until once more they felt the ground under their feet. They were almost, but not quite, over to that field. They would have to travel over ground a little distance and this they didn't like to do. But carrots were carrots and empty stomachs were empty stomachs; so, after hesitating a few moments, they started on.

Miss Louise Kennedy Hall Weds Mr. Lamar Trotti in Macon Church

Macon, Ga., October 2.—(Special.) Marked by exceptional beauty of detail and setting was the wedding of Miss Louise Kennedy Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ellsworth Hall, to Mr. Lamar Trotti, of New York city, which was solemnized this evening at 8:30 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church, Dr. W. H. Mackay officiating.

Mrs. Charles Hall, aunt of the bride, played the pre-nuptial wedding music. Mrs. Ellsworth Hall, Jr., entered first the bridesmaids following, all coming down the center aisle. As they were entering the groomsmen and ushers entered by each of the side aisles. They were followed by the junior bridesmaid, little Miss May Hall, and the junior groomsmen, Master Campbell Hall, younger sister and brother of the bride. Next to enter was the maid of honor, Miss Elizabeth Hall.

The bride entered with her father, who gave her in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. Clarence Trotti, of Atlanta. The bridesmaids were dressed in maize satin, featuring the long waisted and draped skirts, and carried bouquets of yellow roses and pale blue asters tied with a bow of sky blue tulle.

Miss Florence Mills, of Jamaica, L. I., was first to enter and was lovely in her gown of maize satin, trimmed with two rhinestone crescent pins. The overskirt was circular and fell gracefully in two points to the slippers which were of maize satin. Of a deeper shade of maize was the gown of Miss Gladys Nord. At the point of the V neck line in the front and back was this handsome frocks' only ornaments, two rhinestone buckles. The skirt draped in the back similar to the other gowns of the bridesmaids. Miss Josephine Stetson wore a gown of maize satin, the long V neck being featured and the hem was trimmed with tiny scallops. Her slippers were of the new maize crepe de chine. The groomsmen, who entered at the same time, were Messrs. Fred McKenzie, of Monticello; Cobb Torrance, of Atlanta, and Beaumont Davidson, of Atlanta. The ushers were Messrs. Ernest Trotti, of Atlanta; John I.

and Ellsworth Hall, of this city; Mr. Tom Hull, of Atlanta; Mr. Lewis Ernest, of Athens, and Mr. Ralph Wray, of New York city.

Junior Bridesmaid. Little Miss May Hall was cunning as junior bridesmaid. She carried a colonial bouquet of ward roses and lilies of the valley. The junior groomsmen entered next, Master Campbell Hall, who wore an adorable Eton suit. Miss Elizabeth Hall, the maid of honor, wore a modish gown of heavy satin, a light shade of maize. The neck line also featured the V in both front and back, being draped in the back. Her slippers were of the same shade of satin. She carried an arm bouquet of yellow roses and pale blue asters showered with lilies of the valley.

Of girlish simplicity that only youth can offset, was fashioned the beautiful bridal gown of the bride. In its very simplicity of mode the frock was exquisitely lovely. It was of untrimmed ivory gros de londre taffeta, fashioned on straight lines, the back being draped and caught 1-1/2 center with a bow of the same material. The same draped material was featured in this frock.

Reception At Home. Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Hall, parents of the bride, entertained with a small reception at their home on High street. The bride's table in the dining room was centered with the bride's cake, iced in white and embossed in lilies of the valley.

Receiving with Mr. and Mrs. Hall and Mr. and Mrs. Trotti was Mrs. Louise Kennedy, the grandmother of the bride, for whom she is named. After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Trotti left for Miami, where they will sail for Cuba, and after a visit there will sail to New York, where they will make their home.

SYSTEM SEEMED POISONED; MAN RARELY FELT EASY

"I WAS in very bad health when I began to take Black-Draught," says Mr. R. J. Black, of Lockhart, S. C. "I had been sick for a long time."

"I could not eat heartily, and my rest at night was disturbed. I was troubled with the effects of gas pains, and I hardly had a comfortable day. I was nervous and worried. All I could do was to complain. I tried several things, but I could get no relief."

"All my ailments seemed to be the result of chronic constipation, which caused my system to become filled with poison. I was getting worse all the time, but I did not realize the real cause."

"One day a friend suggested that I try Black-Draught. I had often seen it advertised, but I had never tried it. I began taking it right off, and no money could pay me for the improvement which came after I had taken it several weeks."

"I began to feel better. The bad taste which I had in my mouth every morning disappeared."

"My appetite improved, and I began to feel like a different person."

"I continued the medicine for several weeks, and since then I have felt fine. I am in better health now than I have been in years. Black-Draught is a splendid remedy for constipation, and I am glad to recommend it."

Black-Draught is a purely vegetable remedy, prepared from roots and herbs, carefully combined and packaged by automatic machinery.

Easy to take—no disagreeable after-effects. Sold by druggists in 25-cent and $1.00 packages. Try it. JA-86

Georgia Child Amazes Mother

Constipation is one of the worst health-runners for children. Waste matter held too long in their little stomachs and bowels, forms poisons which pollute their blood, cause headaches, make them bilious, weak, listless, fretful and underweight. At the first sign of constipation, give your child a little California Fig Syrup. Children love its rich, fruity flavor. It's purely vegetable, a gentle but certain laxative, and it gives tone and strength to the stomach and bowels so they continue to act normally, of their own accord. Thousands of Georgia mothers are praising it. Mrs. W. M. Allen, 487 Atlanta Ave., S. E., Atlanta, says: "My little girl, Cora Frances, had terrible cramping pains in her stomach at times and suffered from constipation. Her breath was bad and she never wanted anything to eat. She was fretful, pale and weak. "Nothing seemed to help her until I got some California Fig Syrup. Her trouble stopped after the first few doses, and she amazed me by the way her pretty, natural color came back. Soon she was as playful and happy as ever and she's been gaining ever since." Like all good things, California Fig Syrup is limited, but you can always get the genuine by looking for the name "California" on the carton.

Wright-Warnell Wedding Rites Are Solemnized at Emory Chapel

The marriage of Miss Mary Frances Wright, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Wright, of Jackson, and Willis Braxton Warnell, of Charlotte, N. C., was solemnized at 12:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the theological chapel of Emory university. Dr. C. M. Woodward, dean of men of Emory university, an uncle of the bride, performed the ceremony in the presence of the two families and immediate friends. Mrs. Warnell has made her home for the past several months at Emory university.

A magnificent basket of yellow dahlias in the center of a mass of greenery and palms which banked the altar of the chapel formed the center of the artistic decorations of the church which featured the shades of golden and brown. At each end of the altar was placed a large floor basket of magnificent dahlias shading from yellow to russet and gold. Preceding the ceremony a musical program was rendered by Mrs. J. B. McNelly, well known soprano, accompanied by Mrs. Paul Bryan, pianist, and Miss Agnes Adams, who played several appropriate selections on the violin.

The ushers were M. C. Wright, uncle of the bride; and Jerry White. Mrs. J. B. McNelly, of Birmingham, Ala., sister of the bride, who was her matron of honor, wore an ensemble of dark brown satin offset with touches of velvet in a lighter shade. A velvet bow on the left shoulder was a feature of the lovely model. She wore a corsage of Columbia roses showered with valley lilies.

The Lovely Bride. The lovely bride, who entered with her brother, William Wright, of Jackson, was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Franklin Warnell, of Cairo. The bride was attractive in a model of golden brown transparent velvet featuring a smart velvet bow which fell from the left shoulder. A dark brown close-fitting hat of velvet and felt completed the lovely costume. Her bridal bouquet was of roses and lilies of the valley.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast for the wedding party and families of the young couple was held at the home of Mrs. C. M. Woodward, aunt of the bride, on Haygood drive, Emory university. The lovely home was decorated in an artistic arrangement of dahlias and autumn flowers, forming a picturesque setting for the affair. A magnificent basket of velvety pink dahlias in the center of the bride's table was surrounded at artistic intervals with silver candlesticks holding slender white unshaded tapers which cast a soft glow over the lovely scene. Assisting in entertaining were Misses Elizabeth Currie, of Jackson; Nell Johnston, of Emory university; Martha Ridley and Mrs. Albert Wright.

The young couple left afterward for a wedding trip to North Carolina and Virginia, where they will visit the Shenandoah valley. They will make their home in Charlotte, N. C.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Woodruff, T. B. Spencer, Misses Lolie and Virginia Carmichael, all of Jackson; and Dr. and Mrs. W. B. Warnell, of Cairo, parents of the groom.

Tooth paste starts Baby's bank account with a $3 deposit

Sounds strange, doesn't it? But it really isn't. Figure it out this way: by using Listerine Tooth Paste at 25¢ the large tube, instead of ordinary dentifrices costing twice as much, your average saving per year is $3. With this $3 you can open a savings account for your youngster. Or you can buy yourself gloves, or hosiery. There are countless items to choose from—the choice is yours.

A remarkable tooth paste at a remarkable price

You be the judge
AS makers of Listerine, we learned much about the requirements for firm, healthy gums, and beautiful gleaming teeth.

We felt that there was room for an improvement in the quality of tooth paste—and a real demand for a lower price.

Therefore we created a first class dentifrice suitable for all types of teeth. Listerine Tooth Paste is its name, and its price is but 25¢ for the large tube. Such a price for such a paste is possible only because of ultra-modern methods of manufacture and mass production.

The moment you begin to use Listerine Tooth Paste, you will be conscious of the delightful, fresh, clean and healthy feeling of your mouth and gums. And in a very short time you will note a marked improvement in your teeth—a new gleaming whiteness.

And remember, Listerine Tooth Paste accomplishes an average saving of three dollars a year per person, assuming that a tube a month per person is used. Think how substantial is the saving, when there are several in a family. Lambert Pharmaceutical Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

Grid Rule Changes To Have Very Little Effect On Game

Famous Grid Coach Reviews Alterations

Lateral or Backward Pass and Screened Forward Pass Are Changed.

BY HOWARD JONES, Football Coach University of Southern California.

There were not enough radical changes in the rules for the 1928 football season to greatly alter the commonly used methods of attack which have been employed for the past few years. The chief changes in the rules for 1928 are in regard to the backward or lateral pass and the so-called forward screened pass.

Relative to the backward pass the rule last year stated that any incomplete backward pass by an offensive team was dead at the spot where the man last touched it or where, if not touched, it hit the ground, with the provision that the offensive team retained possession of the ball at that point.

At this point let me state that a backward pass, as it is called, can be made by any man but the center, at any time, the center of course being the man who first puts the ball into play.

Former Rule Poor One.

There was no question but that the 1927 rule as applied to the backward pass was a poor one in that it placed no severe penalty on mishandling or fumbling of the ball. The rule last year did not differentiate between close handling of the ball and tossing it backwards.

The new rule of 1928 clearly specifies that a backward pass must be thrown at least two yards. Any attempt which falls short of this distance will now permit opponents to the receiver and run with the ball. Any ball passed backwards at least two yards, as heretofore specified, receives the protection afforded the backward pass in the rule of last year.

This change in the rule will simply bring about more emphasis on clean handling of the ball on reverse plays and on such plays where the quarterback hands or tosses short passes to other backs on plays through the line.

Other Radical Change.

The other change of radical importance to closer students of the game of football has to do with the "screened forward pass." The new rule simply states that when a forward pass is made there shall be no interference on the part of offensive players after they have crossed the line of scrimmage against players who are defending against the forward pass.

Heretofore offensive players could interfere with defensive players until after the ball had left the passer's hand. It was a very difficult rule for officials to enforce because it was virtually impossible for them to tell the passer until the ball was passed and then locate illegal interference.

Another change of note is in regard to fumbled punt, or in other words a fumble by the man receiving a kick. The new rule states that when a man receives a punt and fumbles it, either at the time of catching it, or even after he has run with it any distance, the opposing team has only the right of recovery. In other words, the opposing team, if it recovers the ball, cannot carry it on for a touchdown in the same play. The rule still permits the receiver who fumbles the ball to pick it up again and run with it, if he can.

Rules Have Little Effect.

The effect of the game may be summed up in a few words. The changes in the rules, as detailed here, should have very little effect on the game as it has been played. True, exponents of the backward pass have not been hampered in their development of this style of play. The new

SIC TRANSIT T. R. C.

(Copyright, 1928, for The Constitution.)

So Cobb is through. And with him part of baseball goes; Some of his flame that crackled through From April into winter's snows; Some of his daring, flaring stuff That lit the rosters on the shelf. A dish of speed and brains and bluff And chances that he made himself.

So Cobb is done. And so are plays that flamed and thrilled; A shadow passing by the sun. An open gap that won't be filled; The sudden dust, the flash of steel, From flying feet in running rhyme, Until old legs began to feel The weary heaviness of time.

RECORD LEGS.

Cobb comes pretty close to having the greatest pair of legs known to sport—and this can include all the marathon runners.

The wonder is that he ever lasted ten years—much less twenty-four. No ball player ever put a pair of legs to such hard driving and such constant use. Smooth running is one thing. But quick starting and quick stopping, endless sliding and constant leg punishment is something else. Cobb was eternally upon the offensive—and for more than twenty years he gave his legs almost no rest. No other ball player has even come close to the round trips he made from plate to plate, and most of these came from forced marches. Only unbelievable durability could have stood this quarter of a century's punishment.

From Ughely to Hojnaches.

Dear Sir: If you expect any help on the coming football campaign from the midwestern states, you'll have to do something about this. Just how do you expect your aides to send you any news on a season that will see a lot of the following names featured: Warsawski and Hojnaches, of Indiana; Raskowski, Rebolet and Buschenschuss and Ughely, of Ohio State; Vandenbergh and Christensen of Northwestern; Gallersath, of Purdue; Arendesee, Polkrahak, Ukkelberg, Nagurski and Kahelka, of Minnesota; Freudenthal, of Chicago; Carideo and Chevigney, of Notre Dame; and Yunuskus, of Illinois. When Dr. Hears gets around to it we also may have King Hornstern of the Minnesota lineup.

So, unless you are willing that these last be renamed Smith, Jones, Brown, Cohn, etc., or furnish some kind of a jaw protector, you are likely to have a strike among your helpers. What about it? F. J. P.

The Fickle Fanatic.

Dear Sir: One hears that Stanley Harris may be sacrificed to appease the fans in the national capital. Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington club, still regards Harris a great play-off and manager. The players are with him to a man. But it is said that the Washington club, still regarded as a Washington club, is against the young leader.

Harris was the hero in 1924 when Washington won its first pennant in the series, his popularity began to decline. There were whispers about that series and Bucky was blamed for having allowed Walter Johnson to pitch the final game.

Ban Johnson added fuel to the fire when he openly criticized Harris for having pitched the Big Train in that game. Then came rumors that Harris was high-baiting his old friends. Those were false, but were believed in many sources. The fans rode Harris much of last season and have been on him during all of the 1928 campaign. He finished fourth with 80 runs, but it made no difference. His scalp is wanted.

How fickle is baseball fandom. Washington fans have forgotten their ing interference by offensive players against the man who took matter field. Championship team. They would trade a real pitcher for a good one, sticks and paste and made a world's character for some one unknown. Harris, with a soul of iron, has not been affected by the criticism. It is hoped that Clark Griffith will have his nerve and also the loyalty to retain Harris and permit the wolves to howl at the gates of his park.

One Point for Stribling.

The fact that a flock of heavy-weight contenders walk into Rickard's office looking for an open date and then walk out again when Stribling's name is mentioned, is the best recommendation any heavyweight can carry to date. The same bunch marched out on Kite Hansen. They discovered that Knute could hit—and a good puncher is not the type of push-over most of the heavyweight contenders yearn to face—for $50,000.

Stribling owes the public a flock of good fights for the flock of flops he has handed out in past years. But at the age of twenty-two he has his prime still on beyond. He can do a lot of fighting, whenever he wants to. He must have something now—or the parade would not be turning the first corner at so much speed when they see him coming down the street. In spite of his past performance chart he is still the best looking prospect in the heavyweight group—provided he will deliver 80 per cent of his stuff; 90 per cent of it would carry him through in a center with the blanket still on. The best fighting years are from twenty-four to twenty-eight or possibly thirty. For Tunney they were around thirty, and Stribling is not yet twenty-three. No heavyweight contender ever had a greater chance, with the experience and equipment that he can carry into action.

Indians, Red Wings Play Again Today

Indianapolis, Ind., October 2.—(AP)—Real summer baseball weather, with a hot sun and everything, is the weather man's promise to Indianapolis and Rochester baseball fans. The two teams resume play here tomorrow for the little world's series championship.

Indianapolis, pennant winner in the American association this year, holds a two-to-one game lead over Rochester, champion of the International League. A fourth game ended in a tie. The quarter of contests was played at Rochester.

Godfrey Bout Off.

New York, October 2.—(United News.)—The heavyweight bout between George Godfrey and Roberto Roberti, scheduled for Wednesday night at Ebbett's field, has been called off because of the illness of the Italian giant. Roberti is suffering from a cold in the kidneys and will be out of the ring for three weeks.

New Chess Champ.

Budapest, Hungary, October 2.—(AP)—Jose R. Capablanca, of Cuba, today won the international chess masters' tournament with seven points. United States Champion Marshall was second with six points and Knoch, of Austria, and Spielmann, also of Austria, tied for third with five points.

1928 Season Walter Hagen Was Toughest, Is Victorious Bottomley At Baltimore

Cardinal Club Showed Its Courage by Winning While on Road.

Editor's Note: Jim Bottomley, flashing first baseman of the St. Louis Cardinals, is writing exclusively for this newspaper, the National League and of world series with the New York Yankees. His first story follows. He will write a story after each day's game.

BY JIM BOTTOMLEY.

First Base, St. Louis Cardinals.

(Copyright, 1928, by The National League and The Constitution.)

That fight up the National league hill certainly was a tough fire and a half. I put it that way even a deeper drill than the one we had to make in 1926 to meet the Yankees. At that time I thought I had been through the hardest campaign I would ever encounter, but this 1928 grind made me change my opinion. I don't think I'll ever see its equal. Do you know what I believe made the Cardinals club fight its hardest down that sizzling stretch drive? In my opinion it was the desire to come back after twice losing substantial leads.

Fat Advantage.

As you know, we were six and a half games in the front on the morning of August 7. That was a fat advantage at that time of the year, but we lost it in just two weeks, by dropping nine out of twelve games while the Giants were winning eight out of ten.

That was a tough enough jolt, but we had another in store for us. We recovered from that slump, and our success of the next two weeks, simultaneous with New York's disastrous decline, gave us a fire and a half game command with less than a month to go. It looked as if we "were in." But we dropped the Labor day double-header in Cincinnati, thus aiding the Cubs as well as the Giants. Then, almost before we realized it, we were in the hole.

"Ace in the Hole."

However, we had what we considered our "ace in the hole." We were to finish the season on the road, and we were confident we could win these. That confidence was founded on the success of our previous trips, particularly the one in June when we put together that sensational record of 21 victories in 27 games played on the field of the enemy.

We never had another expedition to watch that one, but all of the four other trips were won. That was the second best of the group was the September drive, when we clinched the pennant. Of our grand total of 95 victories, 53 were won on the road.

Hence we are not bothered by the fact that the world series opens in the Yankee stadium. You'll recall that of our four victories in the 1926 series, three were scored in the Yanks' park.

Strong Everywhere.

We are well fortified in all departments for this clash with the American leaguers. We have had the best of the best pitchers in baseball, Haines, Alexander and Sherdel, starting for us throughout the season. These three were ranked by Phil Rizzuto, stout pitching for the first half of the season, by Clarence Mitchell's spiltball during the second half, and by a sound second string staff throughout the year.

We fell off in batting after July, but our defense was so steady that I don't think it has varied more than one or two points during the last three months. The figures prove that we have the best fly chaser in baseball, Taylor Douthett, in center field. Chick Hafey, in left, besides being a sure catch, owns the most powerfully generated throwing arm in the league in my opinion. Two dependable fielders, Harper and Holm, will alternate in right field during the series.

A catcher's worth depends upon its backbone, which extends from the catcher out to center field. I don't think there's a flaw in our spine. We have one of the world's steepest, most active and best-throwing catchers in Jimmy Wilson, with the veteran Earl Smith in reserve.

Second Base Fixed.

Now I am sure you'll agree with me that there's hardly a better second base combination than Frankie Frisch and Rabbit Maranville. They can do anything around the midway. Rounding out the infield are Andy High at third base and myself at first. High, obtained from the Braves last spring, has proved to us there is no better third baseman in a crisis. Tommy Thayer, hero of the 1926 world series, Wattie Holm and Ernie Orsatti are the reserve infielders. But Holm, of course, will play the outfield against the Yanks, unless needed as an inner cog. Orsatti also is available for outfield duty, in a pinch, as well as the veteran Ray Blades. Willie Roetger, who batted and fielded brilliantly until he broke an ankle July 4, is not expected to play.

We were not the best hitting club in the National League, but we had a balanced attack. We had sharp place hitters and no team had more sluggers. Hafey was the hardest hitter in the league after July 5. Few teams, if any, showed us any dust on the bases, with Frisch as our salient stealer.

Our spirit is excellent, of course, following our National league triumph, and fortunately we are in grand shape physically for the world series. Haines, Alexander or Sherdel will pitch the first game.

Polo in Atlanta Fort McPherson and Horse Guards at It Again—Games Planned With Benning and Oglethorpe.

BY BEN COTHRAN.

The man doesn't live who can challenge the right of polo's claim as the most thrilling of sports. For it is. The perfect co-ordination of man and horse, the team work and swiftness of action all combine to make it a thrilling sport.

One fact is retentive to the game's popularity. Polo is an expensive proposition. Horses cost money and a plentiful of horses is necessary for the playing of polo. That's one reason why it hasn't flourished and grown with the abandon that other sports have.

In comparison to the size of the country, there isn't much of polo, the attendant expense being the reason. But the game is played in Atlanta and seems to be flourishing in a luxurious manner. There are two teams, one of them the Fort McPherson team, the other the Governor's Horse Guards. The guardsmen have been at it for many years and only recently has the McPherson team been organized.

Before that time the guards outfit was forced to scamp around of a Sunday afternoon at Piedmont park and indulge in nothing more than practice tiffs. Interest was aroused at McPherson, however, a team organized and for the past three years or so polo games have been played at the fort, largely between the two teams.

Large Crowds.

The public has become interested in the games and it's nothing unusual to have a crowd of 2,000 or more people on hand. The games, for the greater part, are played in the spring and fall, being discontinued during the summer months because of hot weather.

The first game of the fall season was played last Sunday between the McPherson squad and the horse guards. Another is scheduled for next Sunday afternoon.

And that's just a starter for what's to come in the next couple of months. According to Major Frank of Fort McPherson, the horse guard will be played in a series of three games.

And it is expected that on October 20 or 27 there will be one or two games here from Fort Benning. In case one team comes here that team will play Fort Mac. If two of them come the horse guards will be called out and there will be a pair of games.

The fort has a scheduled game with Benning on Sunday, October 29. On that date there will either be one full eight-chukker game or two six-chukker games. The latter, if played, will be the first polo double-header of which we've ever heard.

Then in November the major plans to bring the team down from Fort Oglethorpe.

Some people have been inclined to wonder at the consistent cry of tilt between Fort McPherson and the horse guards. Fort Benning is fairly close and also Fort Oglethorpe. It costs money, however, to ship a polo string. That isn't the real reason.

Bufs Seek Deciding Game Today

Houston and Birmingham Play Sixth Game of Series in Slagtown.

Birmingham, Ala., October 2.—(AP)—The Birmingham Barons returned to home soil late today, faced with the prospect of having to play two straight games from the Houston Buffaloes of the Texas league, in order to cap the mythical but highly prized Dixie baseball championship.

The teams are returning here for the sixth game tomorrow. After winning the first two the Barons were taken for a ride in Houston, dropping three in a row, due to their inability to solve the offerings of "Big Jim" Lindsey, "Wild Bill" Hallahan and Penna. One more game is needed by Houston.

Manager "Pancho" Snyder was understood to have selected Lindsey for mound duty tomorrow. Lindsey, formerly of the New Orleans Pelicans, held the Barons to six hits Saturday while his teammates were administering a 6 to 4 drubbing to the visitors in the Tex. city. "Big Jim" was in fine fettle on his first appearance against the Barons in the series and let them down with one hit in the first five innings of the game.

Manager Johnny Dobbs made known upon the arrival that Ed Wells, southpaw ace of his pitchee staff, who subdued the Bufs in the opening engagement of the series, would get the call tomorrow. Wells lasted but six innings in his second appearance against the Texas league champions in Houston Sunday.

Baron fans are prepared to start their teams off to victory tomorrow. The police department's hand will attend the game as the club's guests, Concessionaries have taken their place outside Rickwood park with a supply of cowbells for the fans to welcome the Barons home.

High Point college has never been known to turn out any dangerous eleven and all the Petrels need to do for a victory is to play a steady, straight game. They have wonderful possibilities this year and barring over-confidence, they should mount to the heights again and regain their title which was relinquished a couple of years ago.

Oglethorpe's schedule for the remainder of the season follows:

October 6—High Point at Asheville.

October 13—Loyola at Spillers.

October 20—St. Xavier at Cincinnati.

October 27—Maryville at Spillers.

November 3—Tech at Grant field.

November 9—Mercer at Macon.

November 17—Presbyterian at Clinton.

November 20—Chattanooga at Chattanooga.

December 25—Miami at Miami.

Wobbly Yankee Lineup Sends Cardinals' Hopes Soaring

Many Injuries Will Handicap Huggins' Crew

Two Teams Put in Busy Day Polishing Up on Stick Work.

How the Yankees Will Divide Series Pot

New York, October 2.—(United News.)—The New York Yankees today voted to divide their share of the world series money as follows:

Full share—Manager Huggins, Coach Arthur Fletcher, Coach Charles O'Leary, Benough, Collins, Combs, Dugan, Durst, Gaffney, Gaudin, Grabowski, Heimach, Hoyt, Johnson, Koenig, Lazzeri, Meusel, Paschal, Zachary, Pennock, Phipps, Robertson, Ruth, Thomas and Moore.

Three-quarter shares—Doe (goods), (trainer), and Mark Roth (traveling secretary).

Half shares—Stanley Coveleski (released), Al Shealy, Rosy Ryan and Harry Matthews (bullpen catcher).

Money shares—Eddie Bennett (mascot), $800; Marty Campbell $750; William Dickey $700; clubhouse attendant and groundskeeper, $1,000 each.

BY GEORGE KIRKSEY.

New York, October 2.—(United News.)—With only one day intervening before the opening of the world series at Yankee stadium, the increasing uncertainty of the New York Yankees lineup has sent the hopes of the St. Louis Cardinals and their supporters soaring.

Earl Combs is definitely out of the series and the Yankees will alternate Cedric Durst and Ben Paschal in centerfield against right and left-handed pitching, respectively.

Although Combs' wrist is not fractured, it is swollen and badly discolored and he has given up hope of being able to play against the Cardinals.

"The only chance of Combs getting into the series," Miller Huggins said, "is as a pinch runner."

Durocher May Start.

Tony Lazzeri was not at the Yankees' workout today and there arose the possibility of Leo Durocher, the cockiest rookie in the majors, playing second base. Lazzeri was given the day off to allow his shoulder a chance to improve, but the injury is an aggravated one and is not likely to respond to a day's treatment.

"Lazzeri needs all the rest he can get before the series starts," Huggins said.

Batting in Lazzeri's place, Durocher drove a long home run into the right field bleachers off Myles Thomas.

Waite Hoyt, regarded as certain to start the opening game against the Cards, loosened up his arm a bit, and said it felt great. George Phipps, who probably will start the second game, was on the mound for a short time pitching to the batters.

The Cardinals followed the Yankees into the stadium for their workout, which was confined largely to batting practice.

Chic Hafey and George Harper, who will play right field against right-hand pitchers, hit several home runs. Hafey drove a long one into the left field stands off Hal Haid.

Rosy Ryan, former Giant pitcher, Haid, and Fred Frankhouse occupied the mound in batting practice.

The Cards were in a jovial mood, with Rabbit Maraville and "Sunny Jim" Bottomley dividing the spotlight. Maraville kept up a steady line of chatter all during batting practice.

Once Rabbit said:

"Hit that sign No. 301, Chic," he referred to the left field bleachers, which measures 301 feet from home plate.

Hafey hit the ball right into the bleachers on the next pitch.

"I always call his shots," Rabbit chirped.

Attaway, Goodrich Clash Here Tonight

Eddie Hanlon, Presents Card Consisting Entirely of Six Rounders Tonight at Auditorium.

Clearing the decks for what he predicts as the snappiest prize fight card it has been any matchmaker's pleasure to present here in years, Eddie Hanlon, popular old welterweight fighter, is ready to produce his round dozen white batters and five battle-royalists before a big crowd tonight in the city auditorium.

Confident that he has the card, that the prices are right and that the ladies will respond to his decision to admit them free, Hanlon is all smiles.

A careful perusal of the records and achievements of the fighters listed in the six six-round matches shows rather conclusively that he is within his rights in expecting a slam-bang show, an entertaining battle royal and a "house" that will tally with the caliber of the production.

As a safeguard against a bloomer in any of the events, Eddie will have at the ringside two boys of equal weight to throw into the breach if the boxing commission sees fit to stop a match.

"I have requested the commission to stop any match that doesn't appear to be bringing out the best in both fighters," said the matchmaker. "I will have the substitutes ready and there will be no unnecessary delay in putting them on."

Main Bout.

His main match looms as one of the finest fistic morsels Atlanta has witnessed in months. Both Stillman Attaway and Ted Goodrich are known throughout the south, both are considered hard hitters and there is the added glamour afforded by the knowledge that they have never met before.

Attaway has won 37 of 38 fights, which is an enviable record, to be sure. Goodrich's best accomplishment is eight straight knockouts.

The other five six-rounders have their own particular appeal to the public. Irish heavyweights, a rugged slugging veteran who knows the game, comes back again to test the mettle of Wally Eskew in a welterweight fight.

Young Jack Dempsey, from Ellijay, Ga., who bounded into the front rank with a two-round knockout on the recent Chevrolet arranged by Hunt Chevrolet, will make another appearance, opposed to Simon Kessler, a local Jewish light-heavyweight, and in the other matches such names as Casey Jones, Battling Medox and Marshall Cardwell stand out.

Billy Hopper was assigned to the task of digging up the five battle royals and he reported to the matchmaker Tuesday that he had just the right group of youthful Senegambians to please the crowd.

Take Sarfina, former heavyweight boxer of Atlanta, will referee the bouts, it was decided Tuesday at a conference between Hanlon and the boxing commission.

The first match is at 8:30 o'clock.

Man giving away his wares and he outfitted all the Cardinals with new shirts.

Although all the St. Louis players take the granted Sherdel will pitch the opener, McKechnie refuses to announce his official selection.

"I got five prospective starters, Sherdel, Haines, Alexander, Rhett and Mitchell," he said. "I may start any one of them."

Before the Cardinals went to the stadium, Huggins, manager of the St. Louis club when the Cards won the world championship in 1926, and Donnie Bush, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, 1927 National League champions, chatted with St. Louis players at the Hotel Alamac, where the team is quartered.

Rajah Sees Card Victory.

Hornsbly thinks the Cards are a cinch to win and is pulling for them. "The Cards have got the best ball club and they'll win. I don't care who the Yankees play," Hornsbly said.

Hornsbly was chummy with the Cardinals, particularly with Alexander.

Donnie Bush believes the Cards will win for the miserable mowing of his team in last year's series.

"The Yanks have a good, tough team to beat, and it doesn't make any difference how many crumples they got," Bush said. "But I think the Cards are game enough to beat them. Hoyt may be hard for St. Louis, but the Cardinals' pitching staff is much stronger with Pennock out."

HAWK-EYE-ING SPORTS

BY DICK HAWKINS.

More Prophesying.

THE COMMUNICATION from a Tech supporter published in this column Sunday seems to have started something. You will remember that this "Tech Supporter" assayed to name the scores of all of Georgia Tech's games this season. Now comes a letter from Alfred E. Gump (no kin to Andy), of Carrollton, in which Mr. Gump disagrees with the Tech supporter on the scores.

Strange that anyone should disagree with anyone who tries to name football scores in advance. Such a simple thing should not be open to argument. But Mr. Gump does differ and here is his letter.

Mr. Dick Hawkins, Sports Editor The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Mr. Hawkins:

In reply to a "Tech Supporter," who gave in his (or her) letter the scores of the Tech games, I agree with him (or her) in the statement that all games will be victories for Tech.

He (or she) stated that there might be a few points difference between the real scores and those submitted by him (or her). I have that difference and state the following exact scores:

Tech, 27; V. M. I., 6.

Tech, 19; Tulane, 13.

Tech, 13; Notre Dame, 7.

Tech, 21; Oglethorpe, 7.

Tech, 7; Vanderbilt, 0.

Tech, 14; Alabama, 7.

Tech, 35; Auburn, 0.

Tech, 7; Georgia, 6.

The "Tech Supporter" gave V. M. I. a goose egg in the first game, but I say they will get a touchdown before Tech does. The score will either be 6-6 or 7-6 at the end of the first half. Tulane will be the greatest scorer against Tech with two touchdowns. I agree with the "Tech Supporter" on the Notre Dame score. It is a perfect guess, and if it weren't too bold I would give you the name of the lad who will make both of Tech's touchdowns.

Your other informant thinks that Tech will fail in both attempts at goal against North Carolina, but he (or she) is a little wrong, as the Tornado will succeed in one attempt. Oglethorpe won't be easy, but the huskies from Vanderbilt will get a doorknob.

Tech won't find either Alabama or Auburn quite so easy, although both will be victories.

Now in the Tech-Georgia game both teams will be fighting hard for a victory toward that new Constitution cup. That is why I say the score will not be 14-13 but 7-6.

Now, Mr. Hawkins, reveal your guesses and let us see if you miss them as badly as did the "Tech Supporter."

ALFRED E. GUMP.

(No Kin to Andy.)

Just like that! How easy it is to read the future. Gaze in the little crystal ball and you will be surprised. Bet on what you see and you will be surprised some. Oh, yes.

Both of these prophets show considerable knowledge of football as well as more brass than a Gypsy fortune teller in the selection of their scores. They seem to forget, however, that there are other ways to score in football than by means of touchdowns and points after touchdowns. It is noticeable that all the scores named are fundamentally "touchdown scores." The only thing to conclude is that there will be no field goals and no safeties. It's a great relief to know that in advance. These measly little "3" and "2" counts are miserable unless they win a game for the home team.

With baseball talk and reminiscence.

Nearly all the impartial baseball men agree that the St. Louis Cardinals seem to have the edge and that they wish they knew where they could buy a couple of reserved seats.

Ticket scalpers are just about as worried as their prospective clients, since Secretary Ed Barrow, of the New York Yankees, has taken unusual precautions to prevent reserved seats from falling into unscrupulous hands.

Cubs, White Sox Open Series Today

Chicago, October 2.—(P)—The old Cubs-White Sox feud will flare up again tomorrow when the teams renew their battle for the city baseball championship. The first two games will be played at the White Sox park and then the scene will shift to the fair of the Cubs—Wrigley field.

The Sox are entering the fray, not only as champions by virtue of their 1928 victory, but with a record of having won 11 of the 15 series. The Cubs won three while one was tied. No series was held last year as the Cubs failed to challenge.

Manager Lena Blackburne, of the White Sox, indicated today he will rely on "Red" Faber, veteran of many a campaign, to turn back the Cubs in the opener while Joe McCarthy, pilot of the Cubs, is expected to counter with his veteran southpaw ace, Art Nehls.

Advance ticket sales indicate at least 40,000 will see the opening game and the lobbies are beginning to buzz.

Races on Muddy Track Thrill Fans at Fair

Lockhart, Calloway Second Day Winners; Woman Makes Fast Time.

Whipping their little speed creations through a carpet of mud that forced them to slide and skid dangerously, a squad of race drivers Tuesday gave visitors to the South-eastern fair a full quota of thrills in the auto races which marked the afternoon program.

Up until time for the flag to fall on the first event the track looked so dangerous most of the fans thought racing would be impossible, but when a crowd began coming into the grandstand the drivers offered to do their best even on the slimy course which might mean fatal crashes.

While the mud went down the time considerably, the pilots kicked their machine into muddy curves and onto greasy stretches to reel off some sensational time for the condition of the track.

Ted Lockhart, who promises to be the "dark horse" of the week's running, triumphed his National Special home a winner in the feature event, the Handicap Derby, in which he was started last because of the previous day's rain.

Lockhart, who was in the lead in the class "C" race, which he also won. His National Special was the star car of the day, for Miss Elfrida Mais, women's world champion, beat the average time of the men with the same car.

Buddy Calloway, Georgia's own speed star, nabbed the first event, a light race car, while his brother, L. J., took third. Hal Austyn took an easy second and Ray Ross was fourth. There were plenty of sweeping curves and sliding skids to thrill the fans in this run.

Lockhart grabbed the lead in the second lap of the three-mile class C race, after "Big Jack" Murray set a wicked pace for the muddy track.

"Fuzzy" McElroy chased Murray into the turns so fast the big car whipped sideways and back, with Lockhart trailing, but in the third lap the west coast found an opening and slipped into a lead that he held to the wire.

Miss Elfrida Mais drew cheers from the fans and admiration from the drivers when she took the National around the course in 50 4-5 seconds, much faster than the men had been able to average in competition.

After one bad start she roared down the stretch and slid into the upper turn at dangerous speed, but she held the car wide open around the entire curve. Down the backstretch she flashed, skidded into the lower turn and though she was slowly sliding to the outside fence and the concrete wall, she snapped it back into the hard path on the track and whizzed across the tape while the crowd roared its approval.

Bob Green Places.

Bob Green was the first southern driver to place in the southern championship elimination, but he won his heat of three miles in 3:29 3-5, a fast time for the sloppy track.

"Spunk" Collins won Monday and one driver will each day win a heat to start in the finals Saturday to decide the southern championship.

Curly Young, a local favorite since last year, got a bad start but went after Green who led all the way and finished almost hub and hub in the finish.

It was the last event that furnished the most thrills, when Green again started in the lead, but he was crawling up the home stretch when Calloway, who was unable to get past the flying Green who whipped his machine into the curves like a madman, coming into the home stretch, Green slid a little—just enough to let Lockhart slough past him and tear across the tape a winner. Austyn regained some time and got past Calloway to take third, with Young fifth and Buddy Calloway last.
